AT CONFERENCE IN SASKATOON

Tribunal On West Farm Debts Sought

Premier Sees Solution For Farmers' Debts

SASKATOON, July 2.—(CP)—Creation of a tribunal or tribunals by "appropriate legislative authority" to deal with the farm debt problems of western Canada will be sought by the governments of the prairie provinces and agrarian organizations.

Decision to ask federal authority for the "necessary machinery" to make such a plan possible was taken at the prairie farm debts conference held here Tuesday.

Representatives of the governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will meet in Regina July 10-11 to prepare a submission of the proposal for Ottawa. Following the Regina meeting, a delegation from the prairies will go to the east when Ottawa accepts the plan.

A resolution, moved by Robert Gardiner, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, proposing the tribunal plan, received the unanimous support of the conference.

R.C. Church Is Attacked By Dr. T. Shields

An appeal was made Tuesday night at a capacity audience at the St. Paul's Anglican Church, Toronto, for increased membership in the Canadian Protestant League to "provide a body of public opinion that will impress itself on appealing politicians and bring about the will of the people" in favour of permitting continued dominance by the Roman Catholic church in Canadian affairs as exemplified in Quebec.

Dr. Shields said the Canadian Protestant League was formed in protest against the great Roman Catholic influence in Quebec. He urged the members to "march" on Ottawa to demand that the Canadian church in Quebec be Roman Catholic country.

The people of Canada are affiliated with the Canadian Protestant League, he said, as told his audience of the thousands of people who attended his meetings in Canada and in British Columbia.

"DIABOLIC SCHEME"

He asserted that the Rowell-Sirois report on dominion-wide religious relations was a "diabolical scheme" to "marginalize the whole of Canada in the interests of the Roman Catholic church and the provincial government."

Referring to the charges against Lt.-Col. George Drew under the Detainee and Canada Regulations, Dr. Shields said:

"The man who should be interested in the Minister of Justice charge him with making statements which were untrue and false," he said. "The Nazi forces were reported to have stated that 'It was no part of a person's duty to defend his country anywhere but at home.'

He was critical of the maintenance of diplomatic relations between Canada and Germany, and urged the government to sever them.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE

At least 1,000 persons filled every seat on the main floor and balcony and overflowed into the auditorium stage and crowded the galleries.

Dr. Shields condemned any move to establish a Fascist state in Canada.

For the Young Street Mission, Rev. H. G. Martin, Toronto, superintendent of the Young Street Mission, Toronto, reported that all debts had been paid.

Dr. Shields charged that people in Quebec were dominated by the Roman Catholic Church.

DR. R. C. WALLACE WARNS HOUSE

Gainful Employment Rated First Post-War Need

Natural Resources Seen As Great Reservoir For New Canadian Prosperity

OTTAWA, July 2.—(CP)—Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal of Queen's University, Thursday told the House of Commons committee on reconstruction and re-establishment that Canada's natural resources can be developed to provide employment for men discharged from the armed forces and war industry.

But, he said, the long view must be that of conserving and preparing for better utilization of resources for the future.

"The utilization of Canadian Natural Resources has not always been well done," said Dr. Wallace, who is chairman of the committee on construction and development. "The time is ripe to implement the principles to insure once more triumph in the Middle East, while urging the government to make the necessary arrangements to make the needs of the post-war reconstruction fit in with the needs of the future."

The minister appeared to strike hard at the coastal road leading to Alexandria, 60 miles away, which was cut off by the line along the edge of the depression. The depression ends just east of the Suez Canal, where the roads break through will they be able to run in the desert and head west to the Mediterranean coast to cut off the British from their positions?

A drive in advance on the Suez Canal would be more probable by way of Cairo than straight along the coast from Alexandria. The latter route takes the part. The later route would be through the Nile delta, which is insular and subject to desert forces.

The imminent peril to Alexandria makes it most improbable that the Imperialists have any intention of attacking the British in their hands. If the French crews can be persuaded to remove the ships from Suez, the British will be forced to sink them, but it has received the least assistance said Dr. Wallace.

POTENTIALS

"There is greater possibility for use of men and greater need for conservation in forestry than any other natural resource," said Dr. Wallace. Forestry is the industry that gives Canada its chief export trade.

The British War Cabinet has asked for a report on the possibilities of timbering in the forests cut and burned.

Forests can be conserved by looking after the new growth, rather than by reforestation, which costs twice as much as cutting timber.

Forests of timber of cubic feet an acre would refer an area . . .

but it is not the time for hopes of success . . . we are given the facts of success."

The Guardian feared yesterday's speech by Oliver Lyttelton, minister of supply, was a warning to the country about the gloom of the country.

Things were bad, we know, but there was no reason to be more sure why they are bad more surely than they are being better equipped to defend, chastened, but determined.

Britons Urged Concentrate On Gaining Victory

By ALAN RANDALL

LONDON, July 2.—(CP)—Britain's press called upon the nation today to concentrate all efforts to implement the principles to insure once more triumph in the Middle East, while urging the government to make the necessary arrangements to make the needs of the post-war reconstruction fit in with the needs of the future.

The comments were made in editorial columns of both the London and provincial press, following the end of the no-confidence debate in the commons, based on yesterday's speech by Prime Minister Churchill.

The Cardiff Western Mail said the height of a desperate, undecided battle, was not the time to postpone the war "and proclaim the principles of the war" that the prime minister had set down.

NAZIS WONT HESITATE

"If Rommel had any lingering hesitation," the Western Mail said, "he will fling it to the winds and strike." The paper said the Nazis will strike with more virulence in exposing our defects to the enemy . . . but at the same time, will still be able to win the battle of Egypt which is vastly more important than a pre-mature victory.

The Yorkshire Guardian said:

"Breaking our line—if it is to be broken—will be the last effort which will unite the Germans and the British in their new combined forces we are concentrating . . .

but it is not the time for hopes of success . . . we are given the facts of success."

MUST FIND CAUSES

The Yorkshire Post decrying the fact that Britain was outwitted by the Nazis in North Africa, said:

"The war we must above all quickly bring our land weapons, our tanks, our guns, our aircraft, our naval and aerial armaments into play . . .

there is real ground for unrest here in the working of our war machine."

The Glasgow Herald said the damage may have helped convince Dr. Wallace that the British could not be moved by recent events in Libya and Egypt by any other military revenue than Dunkirk.

He argued that if this war is a war of material and productive forces, then the British must be prepared when the Allies stand in an enviable position in spite of the many temporary setbacks.

ECONOMIC WAR

The London evening papers dwelt on the economic war, rather than a military one. The war will be less costly but the cost of each life lost will be far greater.

The speech may yet serve a useful purpose in that it will encourage the public to take a more active interest in the galvanizing of our methods and outcome over the next few weeks.

The Royal Canadian Air Force, he said, would provide a large number of aircraft to the United States and the British.

The speech was a large corps of young men trained to do the work of forest cutting and utilizing wood, men discharged from the armed forces would have a simpler system than exists now.

FAIR DEAL ASKED

Higher Prices For Farmers Urged In Debate On Budget: Parity Said Not Sufficient

OTTAWA, July 2.—(CP)—Parity prices, based on returns of 1936-1914 or 1926-29, are not sufficient for Canadian farmers, New Democracy Leader Blackmore told the House of Commons Tuesday night.

Participating in the debate on Finance Minister Holt's budget, Mr. Blackmore said businessmen were receiving less than parity prices. "On the whole, farmers were worse off than they were in 1914."

"I don't believe there even was a time when Canadian farmers had a fair deal," said Mr. Blackmore.

PARTY NOT ENOUGH

"To me, the people are being treated unfairly and it is not enough." Farmers were entitled to returns equal to those received by other citizens, he said.

Men not familiar with the facts were advised the wartime prices had been set by the government and other agencies on farm products.

By the combined taxation measures in the budget, Mr. Holt would freeze the cost of living to Canadians to be repaid after the war at two per cent. But instead, rates charged in the West had been raised by one per cent, and such charges had been an important factor in reducing Alberta's share of financial importance.

Mr. Holt interpreted that two per cent was a fair interest rate for a short time.

Mr. Blackmore agreed it was a reasonable rate of interest and that the country would be satisfied with the same rate.

The budget could be a "Victory budget" instead of a budget of defeat, which it would be if business taxes were applied to the budget there could be a "great improvement."

Mr. Blackmore suggested the "measures contained in Ottawa should be decentralized and co-operation sought from new sources in solving our farmers' problems."

AFRAID OF BANK

He said the government had used the Bank of Canada for its financing purposes, but the bank had not been asked to do so. He suggested the creation of a currency commission to discover the capacity of Canada to produce its own currency.

Mr. Holt denied the suggestion.

Mr. Blackmore said the same effect could be obtained and there is no issue that currency in the degree of the need of the people.

It was the opinion of the writer that there was richer before so little as Canada could see their opportunity. The government had applied a "dead team" economy to a power age.

M. J. Colwell, CCF, house leader, said the budget was to be examined to restrict purchasing power among the people. He said the budget was signed to defeat that policy would bring disaster upon the country.

It was a fallacy to believe that money could be raised from the people's pockets. Mr. Colwell said the budget was all that mattered and if these could be properly administered it was possible that prosperity might be attained after the war.

Mr. Colwell said the total war budget was "superior" with total war requirements requiring amounts near the "fabulous sum of $4,000,000,000."

People in the low and middle income brackets would feel the pinch of new taxation most.

"It is not what you pay but what you have left," said Mr. Colwell.

The increase in taxation income over $1000 would mean heavily as the total income was raised.

RIGHT DIRECTION

The compiler said that was a step in the right direction. He believed it was more severe in application than a similar plan in Britain.

While we commend many features of this budget it falls far short of conservation of wealth in wartime.

It did not affect accumulated wealth or consumer industry, nor did it provide for medical institutions.

He questioned the power of the government to prevent war, particularly those with unarmed neutrals.

Mr. Colwell admitted the budget was kind to the mineral prospectors who already profited greatly from the present investigation to be made by professional experts as he suggested that the time had come when Canada should make lists of minerals to be mined from mines, the profits to be made from miners.

He made a few figures, noting that total reduction in consumption of alcoholic beverages but said he favored temperance rather than prohibition.

On this point he was in agreement with Conservative Leader Blackmore, also noting the fact which he said was a restriction on the children which he did not think justified.

WORK FOR TROOPS

Mr. Colwell asked what Canada was doing to ensure that there

Prime Minister Warns Britain's Forces Facing Grave Danger In Egypt

taken to combat losses at sea and more than replace sunken tonnage."

"Almost everything arranged was secret," Mr. Churchill added of his talks with the President, "and there was never a more earnest desire between allies to engage the enemy."

In the closing passages of his historic reply, just before Commons began voting on a motion to censure his government for its direction of the war, Mr. Churchill said:

"I have stuck to my blood, toil, sweat and tears, to which I have added muddles and mismanagement."

War Likely To Be Long One

The war, in Mr. Churchill's opinion, is likely to be a long one and moreover, he said, there is no reason to suppose that hostilities will cease "when the final result has been obtained."

He paid tribute to the Russians for their "steady resistance to the Germans and predicted they would "surprise Hitler again."

Mr. Churchill met his critics with a blunt account of the enemy.

He said Tobruk was garrisoned by about 25,000 men and that generally British resources had been much larger than those of the Axis. In Libya, at the start of the war, he said, the British forces had 100,000 men and the Axis 90,000 of which 50,000 were Germans.

"We had superiority in numbers of tanks of perhaps five to five and superiority in artillery on nearly five to five," he added.

Enemy Gets Heavy Reinforcements

By way of explanation of the defeat, Mr. Churchill said that heavy air attacks on Malta, Mediterranean base afflaxed the Axis supply line to Libya, made it impossible to impede the Axis reinforcements and the enemy "got lots of stuff across to Africa."

He said the decision to defend Tobruk had been made by Gen. Auchinleck with concurrence of the war cabinet and its professional advisers and as a result, "I am ready on behalf of my government to take my full share of responsibility."

Criticism of Mr. Churchill's direction of the war has been associated in the debate with the fact that he is both prime minister and minister of defence. One group of critics in Commons has been demanding that he yield the defence post to another who could devote more time to it.

Lashes Out At His Detractors

While Mr. Churchill assumed responsibility for Tobruk he nevertheless lashed out at his detractors with a charge that "everything had been done to weaken confidence in the government."

He said his critics had tried to prove that Britain's ministers are "incompetent" and "to weaken their confidence in themselves and make the army distrust the back-bone it is getting from civil power."

Parliamentary debate has been used "to make workmen lose confidence in the weapons they are striving so hard to make," Mr. Churchill said, "and to undermine the prime minister in his own heart and if possible before the eyes of the nation."

He said it was difficult to "concentrate his thoughts on debate" and "withdraw them from our critical battle now raging in Egypt."

At any moment, he said, "we may receive news of grave importance."

Upwards Of 50,000 Men Lost

Mr. Churchill told Commons that we have lost upwards of 50,000 men during the last two weeks in Cyrenaica, as well as a great mass of material and "large quantities of stores".

He acknowledged "recession of our hopes and prospects in the Middle East and the Mediterranean unequalled since the fall of France."

"Military misfortunes in Cyrenaica and Egypt have completely transformed our situation in the Mediterranean, not only in that theatre but throughout the entire area of the war," he declared.

Mr. Churchill said, "we have suffered a brilliant victory in the desert and a disastrous reverse in Cyrenaica, and the general situation is now very different from what it was."

He said the army in Cyrenaica had been "badly beaten" and "had to withdraw to positions which were not favourable."

Looking them Over

JACK KELLY

TUESDAY night we climbed back into a seat in the Renfrew Park press box after a long vacation spent on the seat of a tractor down at the farm and this initial view of the Junior League's offerings was a little startling. —Coxford, a 13-12 win over the Cubs, a hectic game that Umpire Coxford eventually called off through sheer weariness.

Manager Bill McKinnon and his Cubs immediately protested the result on the grounds that there were still plenty of daylight left in which to play. The protest will be dealt with at tonight's meeting of the league.

But last night's Junior League hit that the Cubs took from the Singers was a 2-1 game that completely dispelled the cloud produced the night before. It was such a game as any fan would enjoy and it drew the best crowd the juniors have had this season.

To justice to all parties concerned, it should be pointed out here that three players borrowed from the Canadians for the game—the two O'Connors and Blazius—played a big part in the Cubs' win. McKinnon was unable to field a full club owing to the holiday and Henry Singer sporting agreed to the use of the Canadian trio. He lost a ball game by it, but he gave the fans a thriller to watch. More than that can not be expected of any spacer.

Results Are Showing At Last

There has been a terrific amount of hard work put into the junior baseball here during last season and this one. A big part of the burden of keeping the league functioning has fallen on the shoulders of Ken Henry and Secretary Duke Duhamell. In fact Duke figures that putting three wildcats into a barrel and then climbing in with them would be a real quiet way to spend an evening after what he has been through for this season.

But last night's game paid all the league executives for the grief they have had. It was a revelation and preview of what junior ball may be here if the league can be kept going for another year or two.

To get the full import of the performance, you have to remember how bad the league was last year. The junior league was completely bogged down and projected on a plus number to that of junior hockey. For weeks the brand of ball was pretty terrible, then the boys were trying hard and the league officials kept plugging along.

Now most of players have a good idea of what the game is all about. They may not be playing very deeply yet into the finer and more intricate plays, but when they try they do them right. If you like to claim sporting distinction for the league, you can say that we have the smartest junior ball in use in western Canada.

The Long Hard Way To The Top

SPORT in Edmonton has presented a constant and terrific headache for that gallant group of enthusiasts who have kept it alive for the past 15 years. With few exceptions, it has been a heart-breaking grind for executives to make both ends meet on the financial sheet. More often than not, money has been lost.

With a population near the 100,000 mark, and some exceptionally fine playing facilities, Edmonton sport should have no trouble, you would think. However one fundamental and absolutely necessary factor was missing—a system of maintaining an adequate supply of local talent so that the costly business of importing could be eliminated.

Hockey was the first sport to pioneer a satisfactory supply system—feeder chains of midget, juvenile and junior teams. In fact this system has worked so well that Edmonton has been providing a big share of the pro and senior players for the minor circuits and western Canadian leagues.

Football circles here have followed suit—but at least to the extent of what they can encourage the same in the schools and by open mind junior league. Results have likewise been very satisfactory.

Baseball tried a number of times to get a junior feeder league organized on a solid and permanent basis and it begins to look as if success has been achieved at last.

If the value of maintaining these organizations is fully appreciated, so too is the value of the other sports. Edmontonians, I hope, found a great sport future once the war is over. A staggering amount of hard and sincere work has gone into providing facilities and equipment for developing our own youngsters and it would be a tragic set-back if this ground work should be lost through indifference or lack of spirit-mind men to carry it on.

Airmen Hold Big Field Day

Squadron 4 Big Winner I.T.S. Track And Field Meet

Squadron Four with nine first places along with three seconds and five thirds, was far out in front so far as points go in the Number 4 I.T.S. field day held at Varsity Stadium yesterday afternoon.

Junior Chamber Of Commerce Wins National Trophy

City Salvage Campaign Outstanding Single War Service Project

The Edmonton Junior Chamber of Commerce was awarded the national trophy for accomplishing the most outstanding single war service project among junior chambers across Canada, by the national convention held at Windsor last week, Jack Weber, past president of the Edmonton chamber, announced upon his return from the conference Thursday.

Takes New Post

Mr. Weber stated that the trophy was the first ever won after work of junior chambers across Canada was judged by government men.

The trophy was won by the Edmonton club on the basis of its outstanding work in connection with the Edmonton salvage campaign.

Gordon Newton, president of the Women's Auxiliary, accepted the award and stated that the work of the Women's Auxiliary as well as that of the men's auxiliary served in the dual capacity of charm, president and salvage campaign chairman. No chairman, cannot be praised too highly.

GREAT SERVICE

They have taken on a responsibility that has proven to be the greatest single war service project of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, and deserve credit for the achievement of bringing this huge project out of its preliminary stages to a point where it is operating on a wide scale. Mr. Newton stated.

Mr. Weber said that the Edmonton chamber's contribution was considered, but owing to the uncertainty whether such a meeting will be held, they left the plans in their day.

Liquor Prices Are Increased Here Thursday

Increased liquor prices in the province were effective Thursday, according to J. A. King, chairman of the Alberta Liquor Control Board.

The latest advance made in Saskatchewan, being 75 cents for a 40-ounce bottle, 50 cents for a 26-ounce bottle, and 25 cents for a "mickey" — was adopted.

Increases generally for rye whiskey are 65 cents for 40 ounces, 40 cents for 26 ounces and 20 cents for 12 ounces.

Prices on other types of liquor are increased proportionately, Mr. King said.

The price increase will remain unchanged until Aug. 1.

Upward revision in prices follows the liquor tax increase contained in the Federal budget brought down last week.

HEADED FOR LAND

If the warship was within range of landing fields on shore the pilot made for land after his mission had been carried out. If the ship were too far out, the pilot headed back toward his ship or landed on the water. If successful in his panacea he would then board his boat and the sea he would be taken aboard.

The whole business of being a battlefield based pilot was a hazardous profession, according to FO. Division explained but he enjoyed the life immensely.

After you were up in the air, the first thing you did was get back to the ship. You were really on your own. The platform was so high that you could not get off in an instant.

Many fliers, like Wedstoy for example, had to stay at sea for days.

At the end of the week, the fliers will remain there until the opening of the school term in September. Others went out of town just for a day.

At the end of the week, buildings, offices and stores were closed during the day, to mark the holiday.

Police and fire departments reported a fairly quiet day.

All pennies to the weekly food budget buy useful parts of vegetables usually discarded.

Peel broccoli stems and cook as you would any other vegetable. The parts of asparagus for soups, when water in which asparagus was cooked. Puree the stems when soft.

Cook broccoli and cauliflower twice as long as usual and eat with leaves, sauteed, turned and baked tops either separately or together for greens. Remember, green leafy vegetables are rich in essential vitamins.

To preserve vitamins in leafy vegetables add a small amount of water and only long enough to make them tender. Let them cool quickly before turning the heat low.

Here's a recipe using leaves which are used for soups.

GREENS RING WITH CREAMED WINE AND POTATOES

(Serves 6 to 8)

Three pounds mixed greens, washed, stems removed, 2 bacon or ham slices, 2 cups well-seasoned white sauce, 1 pound creamed onions, 2 cups cooked diced potatoes.

Wash and trim green, add salt and cook rapidly until tender under water. Add bacon or ham.

(Enough water clinging to the leaves to cook them.) Chop onions and add to the greens. Add 6-inch ring mold, set mold in pan of hot water over low heat or in oven at 350° F. for 15 minutes. Prepare while sauce is cooking.

Turn out onto a platter; fill center with creamed potatoes; and potatoes; serve at once.

HONORED PLACE IN VAN OF ATTACK

Canadian Army To Go Into Action Soon Declares King

Forces Strong, United For Supreme Task Of Crushing Enemy Premier Tells House

OTTAWA, July 2.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said yesterday in the House of Commons that the day is coming—"it may be close at hand"—when the army "will have an honored place in the van of attack."

"The Canadian army is not an invading army," he said. "It is an army to be used in the task." Mr. King said in a brief statement on the 75th anniversary of Confederation.

"We planned, it has been organized, and it is trained as a highly-mechanized and armored striking force."

TIME NEEDING

Mr. King did not expand on his reference to Canadian place in the "van of attack" at a time which "may be close at hand." He did, however, make only a few days after his return from Washington where he met with President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt when a second front was considered.

With the day for attack come, Mr. King said, "no Canadian doubts that . . . our army will do its full part in the struggle to bring victory to defeat and to destroy the military might of an enemy whose design is to conquer the whole free world."

Canada's army was strong and united by a common purpose. It was the first all-Canadian army to serve in the war, he said, and it was to be strong and more than ever united by a common purpose.

"Our 75th anniversary of Confederation is unique in that never before in our history, to let nothing divide us as a people, to complete our task of saving the world, we must bring together the others who have spoken today over the development and the progress of Canada's army."

UNION OF EQUALITY

"Let us not forget that a Confederation was not a union of majority and minority, but a union of different peoples, of different traditions, mentalities and languages. It was undertaken by the people themselves, the others who have spoken today over the development and the progress of Canada's army."

"There have been differences of opinion and of action, but there will be, there always will be, differences in the future. These are to be expected and are expressed in the spirit of good faith. Humanity is divided, as we know, and will remain divided until the end of time."

EXISTENCE THREATENED

"But do not these very divergences of opinion and thought bring enlightenment?"

"I hope both now and in the future that peace and harmony will prevail among the different sections of the Canadian people."

"We are freely and fully associated," said Mr. King, "with the other free peoples of the world in a death struggle with an evil power threatening the very existence of the human race."

Mr. King said that in view of the present situation, the elaborate ceremonies would be out of place, but it was right to pause and reflect, he said, "in the spirit of the freedom and liberty for which the Fathers of Confederation labored long and well must be preserved."

"The preservation of those liberties depends and will be determined by the strength of the united effort of each of the allied nations."

It was agreed that when we are celebrating the 75th anniversary of Confederation we should also have the opportunity through Army Week to pay tribute to the men upon whom rests, with the navy and the air force, the responsibility for the preservation of our nation."

ARMY WEEK

Mr. Coldwell spoke of the Westminister Abbey service yesterday in which tribute was paid to Canada and added:

"In my opinion the greatest tribute that we can pay both to our fathers and to those who today are being born is to let them know that we shall determine in this chamber what shall be done now in the cause of freedom, and how effective that can be made it, and secondly, how we may best lay the foundations now in this community, in this country, in this service across the seas may return to a land in which they may live in security and happiness, in which they may build for themselves and for coming generations something better than we or they have ever known."

"Let the government comprehend that this house does not expect that our situation is such that we share the entire responsibility for all that we may have to do with the members of this house as the House of Commons is representing the people of Canada."

Mr. Blackmore said he had been thinking how disappointed the Father of Confederation must feel as they look down on us and reflect how much unhappiness there is in the world.

"I was thinking," he said, "that the finest resolution we could make here now, all of us together, would be to do our best to help the people of this country to live as we live, as much of them as we are called upon to consecrate to the cause of the welfare of the Canadian nation, what the Fathers of Confederation have performed, with little notice and no complaint."

"Mr. King said, "the Canadian people are being given a special opportunity to realize the value of their own appreciation of the Canadians in the Atlantic."

QUOTES CHURCHILL

He quoted from a speech by Prime Minister Churchill in which the British leader praised the Canadian army's part in standing up to Hitler. In the 10th Canadian Division, he said, "they were the very point where they would be the first to be hurled into a combat zone."

He said he doubted, if full credit had been given to the army men who "stand in ceaseless vigil at the lonely outpost of our island."

"When the balance sheet is struck," he said, "we shall never to forget the long dreary months of dull, but vital, routine service should coincide with Army Week for Canada's national pride had deepened with the knowledge that the army was "guardians of one of the greatest bastions of freedom, and prepared to take action in any place, at any time."

All had been profoundly stirred by the exploits of Canadian airmen in every theatre of war," and by the valour and tenacity of the navy, Canadian machines, munitions, food and money were essential to keep the war going in the dark days of 1940 and 1941."

"But our Canadian army, because it has seen little fighting, has not been deeply involved in the battle scenes are terrific. Don't Miss It."
